Tessa Wolvekamp

Tessa is graduating this spring from the University of Guelph with a Bachelor of Arts Honours Degree double majoring in English and History. In her spare time, she likes to read anything and everything, watch movies at the theatre, and hang out with her friends on campus. After graduation Tessa will be pursuing a graduate education in the field of publishing.

Megan Wilson

Megan Wilson is finishing up her Honours arts degree in English and Media studies. She is an undergraduate research assistant in the School of English and Theatre Studies, Vice President of The English Students’ Society, and Social Media Coordinator for VDAY Guelph, promoting feminism, art and activism on campus. In first year, her paper was published in Footnotes and she remembers the experience fondly as her first ‘real’ publication. In the fall, she plans to start her MA in English at Guelph, studying education in the digital age.

Emma Legere

Emma Legere is a third year arts student majoring in English and History. She has worked extensively in writing and tutoring fields throughout her studies, including work as the Library and Archives Assistant Coordinator at OPIRG Guelph. Emma has a passion for all literature and writing from Japanese manga to eighteenth-century poetry. When she isn’t doing schoolwork or taking care of her puppy, she is almost certainly either playing World of Warcraft or in the midst of a poorly timed Netflix marathon.
