2019 Footnotes Editorial Team

Jake McIvor
This is Jake’s final semester at the University of Guelph, and he is currently hoping to receive an acceptance letter to return to Shanghai and begin his Master’s program in history at Fudan University. He has been involved in the University of Guelph’s V-Day, Slut Walk, Take Back the Night, Orientation Volunteering, and he is proud that Footnotes is the capstone to his experience of Guelph campus engagement. He would like to extend a huge thank you to Dr. Smith and his fellow publishers.

John O’Connor
John is in his fourth and final year at the University Guelph, completing a Bachelor of Arts in Philosophy and Media & Cinema Studies. He is taking his sweet time deciding what to do after this B.A., but he is an optimist.

Keely O’Donnell
Keely is a third-year undergraduate student at the University of Guelph in the Bachelor of Arts; International Development program. She specializes in race and gender studies. Keely is passionate about human rights and went to college previously for Community justice. She hopes to one day reform prison systems in developing countries with an emphasis on South Africa. In her spare time Keely enjoys running outdoors with her dog Angus, reading, and watching documentaries. She has enjoyed working on this journal as it has provided her the chance to expand her knowledge of gender studies as well as check publishing a book off her bucket list.

Clarissa Shepherd
Clarissa is in her fifth year of Psychology and hopes to hell that she is graduating this semester. Pray for her. She is survived by her son Charlie, a grey cat who barfs exclusively on carpet, and her massive collection of unheard songs and unread stories.

Jack Stephenson
Jack is a third-year student in the Bachelor of Arts and Sciences program, minoring in English and molecular biology. On campus, he is a volunteer with Canadian Blood Services and currently works in a molecular and cellular biology lab studying \( m. \) tuberculosis. Jack is very passionate about the overlap between the humanities and science, and plans to pursue a career in medicine after finishing his undergraduate degree. Jack would like to extend a huge thank you to his fellow editors, who’ve helped make this an incredibly rewarding experience.
